An excerpt of the student’s reference list, with Writing Center feedback:

References

Comment [A1]: Article and book titles should be capitalized according to sentence case. For sentence case, only capitalize the first word, the word immediately following a colon, and any proper nouns.

Comment [A2]: Be sure to italicize the journal title and the volume number.

Comment [A3]: Do not use the Walden Library link because it is not accessible to all users. Instead, provide one of these:

- The best option is the DOI, which usually appears on the first page of an article. If it’s not there, search CrossRef: http://www.crossref.org/guestquery.
- The next option is the journal’s home page URL. Do a Google search for the journal name, and you’ll likely find the home page.

More tips on electronic sources here.

Comment [A4]: Nice capitalization and italics in this one! Remember that you will need to add electronic retrieval info if you found this article online (through the Walden Library or another search).
doi:10.1080/09585192.2011.555129

doi:10.1108/02621710910972706

Created March 16, 2015, by the Walden University Writing Center